By The Associated Press.
GENEVA, March 2.—Prof. Hermann Feraud, author of "L'Accuse," the famous book declaring Germany responsible for the world war, announces the results of the recent election in Germany in the Journal de Geneve as follows:
"In favor of a republic—nearly 19,000,000 votes with 260 deputies consisting of majority socialists, democrats and independents. 15 percent of the old regime—nearly 4,000,000 votes with 63 deputies, consisting of German national and people's parties."
The Catholic center, the writer says, with nearly 5,500,000 votes and 88 deputies, continuing in an equivocal attitude. Professor Feraud in conclusion, says that the allies must make peace with the German people and not with the government of Reichsmann (the new German chancellor) and Count von Brockdorff-Rantzau (the foreign minister).

CHANGES ARE MADE IN INDIAN MEASURE

Osage Election in June Is Eliminated and Extension of Trust Period Also Taken From Bill

World's Washington Bureau.

WASHINGTON, March 2.—The Indian appropriation bill passed by the senate at 2:30 Saturday morning went to conference late in the afternoon. Senator Owen and Congressmen Carter of Oklahoma are two of the conferees. The most important changes in the bill as it has been agreed on so far is the elimination of the Osage election, which was to have been held in June, the killing of the provisions which would have extended the trust period from 1931 to 1936, and the retention of the Chandler provisions for elimination of oil inspectors.

The Chandler amendment for an Osage attorney will not be included in the bill when it comes up for final passage Monday. Neither will the objectionable feature of fee-for-probate attorneys, where the estate is more than $1,000, be allowed. Victor M. Locke allowed the $1,250 which Indian Commissioner Bells held up. Thirty-five thousand dollars is provided for the Osage agency building at Pawhuska.

It was practically certain that the senate would let the Hastings amendment go through providing for approval of untested oil and gas claims at Muskogee instead of the secretary of the interior. There was

SOONER HANDSHAKE FOR TROOPS PLANNED

Rocky Mountain Club Organizes to Give Welcome to All Western Soldiers Who Return.

World's Washington Bureau.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 2.—An Oklahoma handshake for Oklahoma soldiers who offered their lives for their country in France. This is the aim of the Rocky Mountain club which has asked Governor Robertson and the news-papers in Oklahoma to acquaint the people of the Sooner state with its aims.

It is now a boy who went from Tulsa or Bartlesville or Vinita, or any other Oklahoma town to fight for the world comes back to New York without a single representative from Oklahoma to greet him. He walks down the gangplank without seeing a face he ever saw before or hearing a word of welcome from any one representing the home folks. It is not a very inspiring experience of gratitude nor a very cheering welcome.

The people of the Pacific coast have by proxy stretched their hands across the continent to greet their boys and John Hays Hammond, president of the Rocky Mountain club, wants to get in on the scheme.

Western correspondents, correspondents of New York papers and Washington editors discussed the plan with Mr. Hammond at a dinner at his home here the other day. A resolution was adopted, signed by these men and sent to the governors of the various western states. The plan has been received with enthusiasm by the governors in which the Rocky Mountain club. The western business that is profitable is the mercantile shop and the Rocky Mountain club has the support of all western men who are interested in the welfare of the nation and the way in which the government provides for their comfort while they are away from home.

The list of men who had been included to sell these decorations in the first division in this war and he secured a wide-spread support. It was decided that the Rocky Mountain club would take care of itself, but in New York, their city's authorities upon them for a plan in which the decorations are against themselves.

Mainly it is a question of the Rocky Mountain club to the west and both (2200) Rocky Mountain club have made substantial contributions. The state of Washington has appropriated $500,000 for a welcome when the men come back to the state, but the money is not as much needed there as in New York, where there are thousands and thousands of men who are waiting in that strange city.

Attention has also been called to the fact that the mayor's welcoming committee of New York holds after only men from that city, also that the money appropriated for the Rocky Mountain club would be used only for men from the state which gave the money.

Plan of the organization include the formation of a committee of 100 to give western men a real home welcome in New York and it is said there are at least 500 former Oklahomans in New York who would be glad to serve on the committee. The club also call for the appointment of local and financial committees. William H. Taft will head the former and William Boyce Thompson the latter.

Bishop Wetters said that, accompanied by Bishop Charles Anderson of Chicago, and another bishop set to be named, he would journey soon to Rome in behalf of the church league.

Women Bolshevik Found.

WASHINGTON, March 2.—The discovery of a nation-wide bolshevik women's organization in Finland through the arrest of an 18-year-old girl was reported in dispatches to the state department from Helsinki.

DEAR FOLKS:

I am going to write several letters to you—in which I will tell you some things that I know you are interested in.

You and I agree, I am sure, that life is very much easier for us if we can keep happy.

We all surely understand that our greatest happiness comes when we allow our hearts to lead us—when we do as much for others, if not more, than we do for ourselves.

We all know, in our home life for instance, that happiness flies out of the window if all the members of the family are not harmonious.

We all know that quarrels, bickerings, or misunderstandings in our family or social circles do not get us anywhere, so far as the joy of living is concerned.

On the other hand, life is very rosy indeed if we are thoughtful and kind to one another in the family circle, and if we are considerate of the feelings of all others with whom we come in personal contact. I have always believed that our business life should be as happy as our home and social life.

I have never been able to understand why so many of us change our natures when we go to our offices or stores or shops.

Why should we keep out of our daily toil those elements that give us so much pleasure away from our work?

All my life I have believed that every man and woman engaged with us in making our business successful should be treated by us with as much courtesy and kindness as we show to members of our household and to our intimate friends. Why not?

It is far easier to mix a lot of heart in our business and to get good results than it is to be sold, calculating and mercenary to grind the hearts out of our associate-workers and make them human machines instead of the happy human beings that the Ruler of the Universe intended them to be.

The most of you, to whom I write this letter, are workers like myself. We cannot all be owners of businesses. We must work for others—but if we are fortunate enough to work for a man or a company where heart is a factor in the business, you know as well as I do that our daily toil is a joy and not a cross.

The very nature of my work has brought me in personal contact with a great many business men throughout the country.

I used to think that business was a thing wholly apart from our family and social government; but as I grew older I learned differently.

In spots here and there I have found men who practiced in their business affairs those nice things of life that won the loyalty and devotion of their associate workers—that made the workers happy and proud—that made the businesses themselves very successful.

But I have always had difficulty in persuading big business men to go to the public with heart messages—messages that would unfold to you and to me the human side of their business.

They have told me very often that you would not be interested in the personal side of their business; and I have always answered them that you would, because you are very human and are very keen about knowing whether the workers of the world are getting as much out of life as they should—and that you would be won to the support and glorification of the business that had the heart and impulse to make its workers happy.

I knew that some day somewhere I would meet a BIG MAN who conducts his business on the heart plan, whose associate-workers and himself get out of life a full measure of happiness, and a man who would be willing to let me tell you all about it.

At last I have found THE MAN and THE BUSINESS that I'm going to tell you about in this series of letters. He directs a very big business whose receipts average daily more than one and a quarter million dollars.

What a great thing it is for us to hold fast to our faith—believing that some day we will meet our IDEAL! This man and I met in a peculiar way. We had never known each other before personally, but we had known of one another's work.

He read one of my TALKS which I write daily for the New York Evening Mail and he liked the HEART in it. While he was in New York one day several weeks ago, I was introduced to him and he questioned me a great deal about my views as to the human side of business.

He did not laugh at me as others have done in days gone by.

He listened very attentively and sympathetically. He told me that I was right in my beliefs.

He told me that he also believed, as sincerely as I do, that life is worth while only if one can so live it as to give the greatest service to the greatest number.

The upshot of our meeting was that I was invited to go through his plant in Chicago—to mingle with his workers—and to find out for myself whether the ideals that I have been writing and talking about for so many years existed there; and if I did find that they existed, then he would give me free rein to write what I pleased and to print what I wrote in the daily newspapers of the country.

I thought it would take me perhaps a week to gather all the material I wanted, but I became so interested in my work and heard from the lips of the happy workers so many wonderful things that I remained for over five weeks. In my letter next week I will introduce to you the man who is the head of the greatest family of workers I have ever met in my life.

I hope you will get as much happiness and satisfaction out of reading these letters as I will in writing them. Sincerely, William C. Freeman, 131 E. 23rd St., New York City.—Advertisement.

... and in Boston, too

A fact:

At the four most exclusive hotels in Boston—the Copley Plaza, the Touraine, the Parker House and Young's—the biggest-selling cigarette is not one of the high-priced brands, as one might expect, but Fatima.

Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.

FATIMA

A Sensible Cigarette

NOTE—In other cities, too, Fatima leads. At the Waldorf, the Astor and the Yale Club, New York; at the Willard in Washington, at the Racquet Club in St. Louis and at hundreds of other such places, West and East. It is not because of Fatima's lower price, but in spite of it. It is because Fatima tastes better and leaves a man feeling as he should feel.
